

UTILIZING ELECTIVE SPACE WISELY

After your transfer credit evaluation is completed, you may still have General Elective courses to fulfill. Understanding how elective courses can be used allows you to make choices that support both your educational goals and personal interests. Below are three tips to help you get the most out of your elective space.

GET THE MOST OUT OF IT

Take Courses from a Different Program

- Different subjects entail different learning strategies, and can open your view of the world around you.
- You may just discover a hidden interest! It's never too late to discover a new passion.

Take Advantage of Your Interests and Strengths

- Taking a course that appeals to your interests or strength can contribute to a better learning experience.
- Consider taking an Elective course that will build or strengthen a specific skill you already have.

Select Courses that can Enhance Your Area of Study

- Does your degree have other concentration options? You will declare one concentration as part of your program requirements; but, the other concentration options could inspire your Elective course choices.
